

Clinical Practice Council

Purpose

The purpose of the Clinical Practice Council is to promote continuous improvement in quality of nursing care through supported evidence-based practice. The council will participate in the development of a stream-lined process to access electronic policies and procedures, and promote innovative communication avenues for nurses to provide feedback related to nursing practice and quality of care

Goals

The goal of the Clinical Practice Council is to:

- Review, revise, recommend, and develop clinical nursing practice standards, policies and procedures
- Evaluate new and current technology for application to practice
- Maintain and keep the Princeton Medical Center nursing procedure manual current
- Will ensure that policies, procedures, and practice standards are evidence-based and include review by other healthcare disciplines if needed
- Recommend changes in documentation systems to assure efficiency and effectiveness
