1. In general, the cost of medical care for individuals is lower than for the medical community. However, for the general public, these costs are usually lower than in the medical community (in the case of FPG). For 200% of the cost of medical care, the state provides medical care. In the case of 300% of the cost of medical care, the state provides medical care only in the case of emergency care and hospital care for the second medical care.

2. For emergency care, if the patient is covered by the state medical program, the state covers the costs. In the case of non state medical programs, the state covers the costs in the case of a medical emergency.

3. For medical care, the state provides medical care for all individuals. However, the state covers the costs only in the case of medical emergencies and hospital care.

For medical care, the state covers all medical care costs. For emergency care, the state covers all medical care costs. In the case of medical emergencies, the state covers all medical care costs. However, in the case of non state medical programs, the state covers only the costs of emergency care and hospital care.

The Medical Co-Insurance (NJ L.2008 c.60) is 115% of the medical care costs for individuals who are covered by the state medical program. In the case of non state medical programs, the state covers only the costs of medical care and hospital care.

For medical care, the state covers the costs of medical care for all individuals. However, the state covers only the costs of emergency care and hospital care.

VII.  får

Peterson's Rule of Mutual Understanding ("PFS") defines the "public" as those "who are likely to be the victims of violence". This definition is not limited to those who have been subjected to violence, but also includes those who may be at risk of being subjected to violence. The "public" includes anyone, regardless of their status or background, who may be at risk of violence.
